Imagine Christ our Lord present before you upon the cross, and begin to speak with Him, asking how it is that though He is the Creator, He has stooped to become man, and to pass from eternal life to death here in time, that thus He might die for our sins. I shall also reflect upon myself and ask: "What have I done for Christ? What am I doing for Christ? What ought I to do for Christ?"

LATER FIFTY YEARS

The pictures on these pages show the new Loyola Academy. They were taken from a helicopter with a wide angle lens. To the student of 1910, this photo would mean nothing. He knew Loyola Academy as an underpopulated Dumbach Hall. The helicopter was still in the experimental stage and the wide angle lens was still to come. So a few photographs show the vast difference in the Class of '60 and the Class of '11. The things which we take for granted would be new and wondrous to those graduates of fifty years ago; how graphically this example illustrates it.

THE PAST

Foreword

The theme of the 1960 Loyola Year is the comparison of two classes of people, each one distinct and different, yet each possessing one unifying factor, Loyola Academy. The idea of this book is to contrast and compare the graduating seniors of 1960 with the seniors who graduated from the Academy in 1911. It has been stated already that there is a vast difference between these two groups of Loyola men; no one will deny that. A very wise man once remarked that a mind streched by a new idea can never return to its original proportions. Here is where the greatest difference lies. What does it matter that one senior drove to Dumback Hall in a Model 'T' instead of a Chevrolet Impala or wore knickers instead of the newest Ivy League fashions?

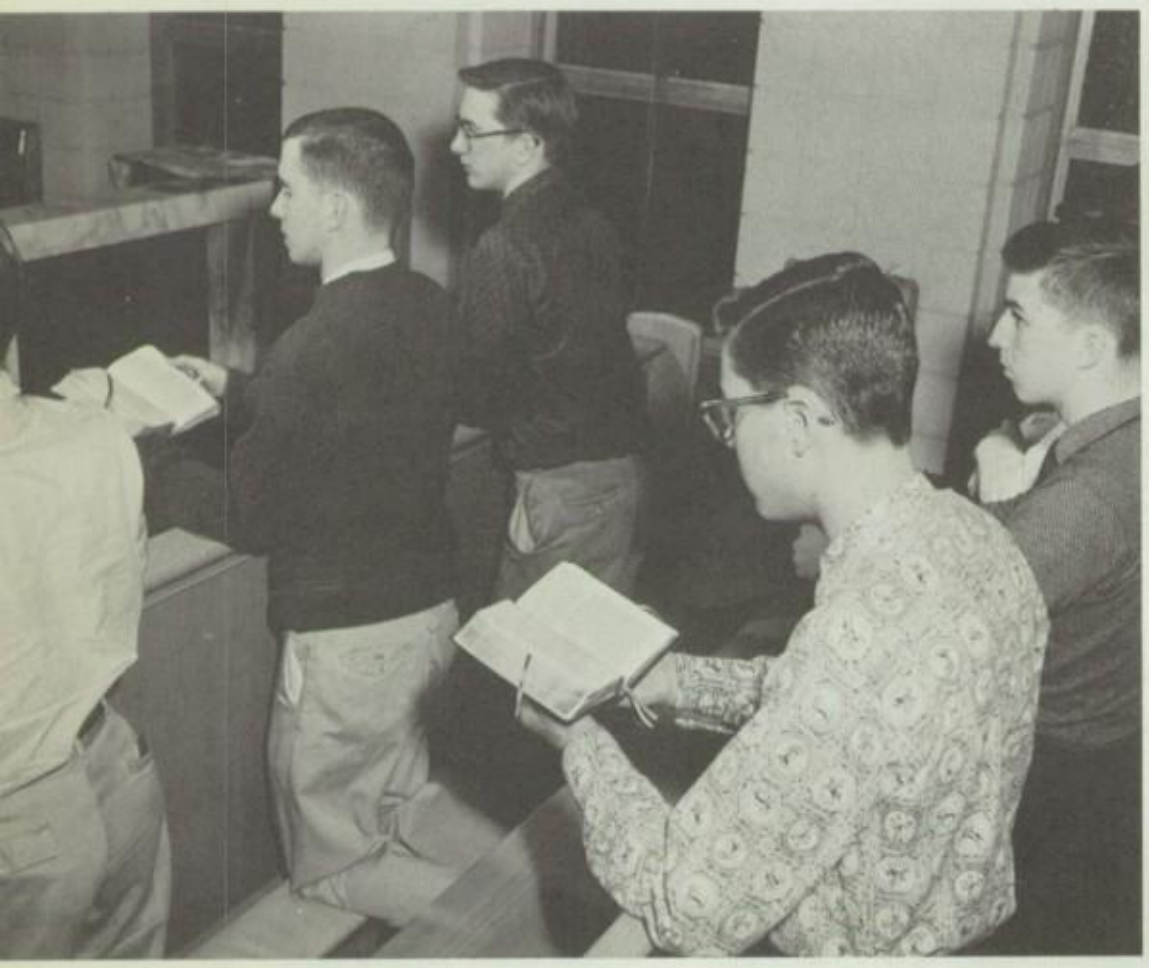
The senior of today has been thrown into a world where Catholicism is coming into its own and where men are forever seeking truth in the midst of turmoil. The graduates of the class of '11 knew nothing of world wars, depressions, atomic bombs, or Communism. Due to a lack of communication and transportation, his view was compact and limited.

To the senior of fifty years ago, the moon was an inaccessable satellite and nothing more. But many men in our class will use this same moon as a target for missiles and as a springboard for even greater feats in God's universe.

However, the first graduates knew an America we shall never recapture. They know a Loyola Academy of early beginnings, of small classes, and growing pains in a new building. We, too, in the class of 1960 know something of a new building and have certainly seen the results of growing pains. And we are also the last who can remember, months ago, trudging to a campus on the lake. . .

Thus, by retracing time back to the year of 1911, we can see that Loyola Academy is the common bond between our class and the first class of 1911; This is what we share: a building, an ideal.

A GENERATION ON WHEELS — In the teenager's school-life and night-life, his first love is the family car, a modern convenience unknown to the students of fifty years ago.



A CLASS IN LIVING — The Mass has always been the guiding light and ever-present aid for all Loyolans. Fifty years ago the use of the missal and daily reception of Holy Communion, standards today, were the exception.

Many things have changed since the first seniors received their diplomas and headed for college. Back in 1911 Henry Ford was considered mad and the Model 'T' and Stanley Steamer only passing fads. Yet today 96% of the senior class drives to school During these 50 years many things have changed in the home, in the church, and in society. But always the Jesuit goal of complete education has been present at Loyola.

T'WAS THE NIGHT BEFORE — Christmas at home hasn't changed much in fifty years, but the cost has. Today the average student spends forty dollars on gifts for family and friends during the Christmas rush.

TIN CAN ALLEY — Students pay their way with a long list of occupations: stock boys, salesmen, gardeners, mechanics, delivery boys.

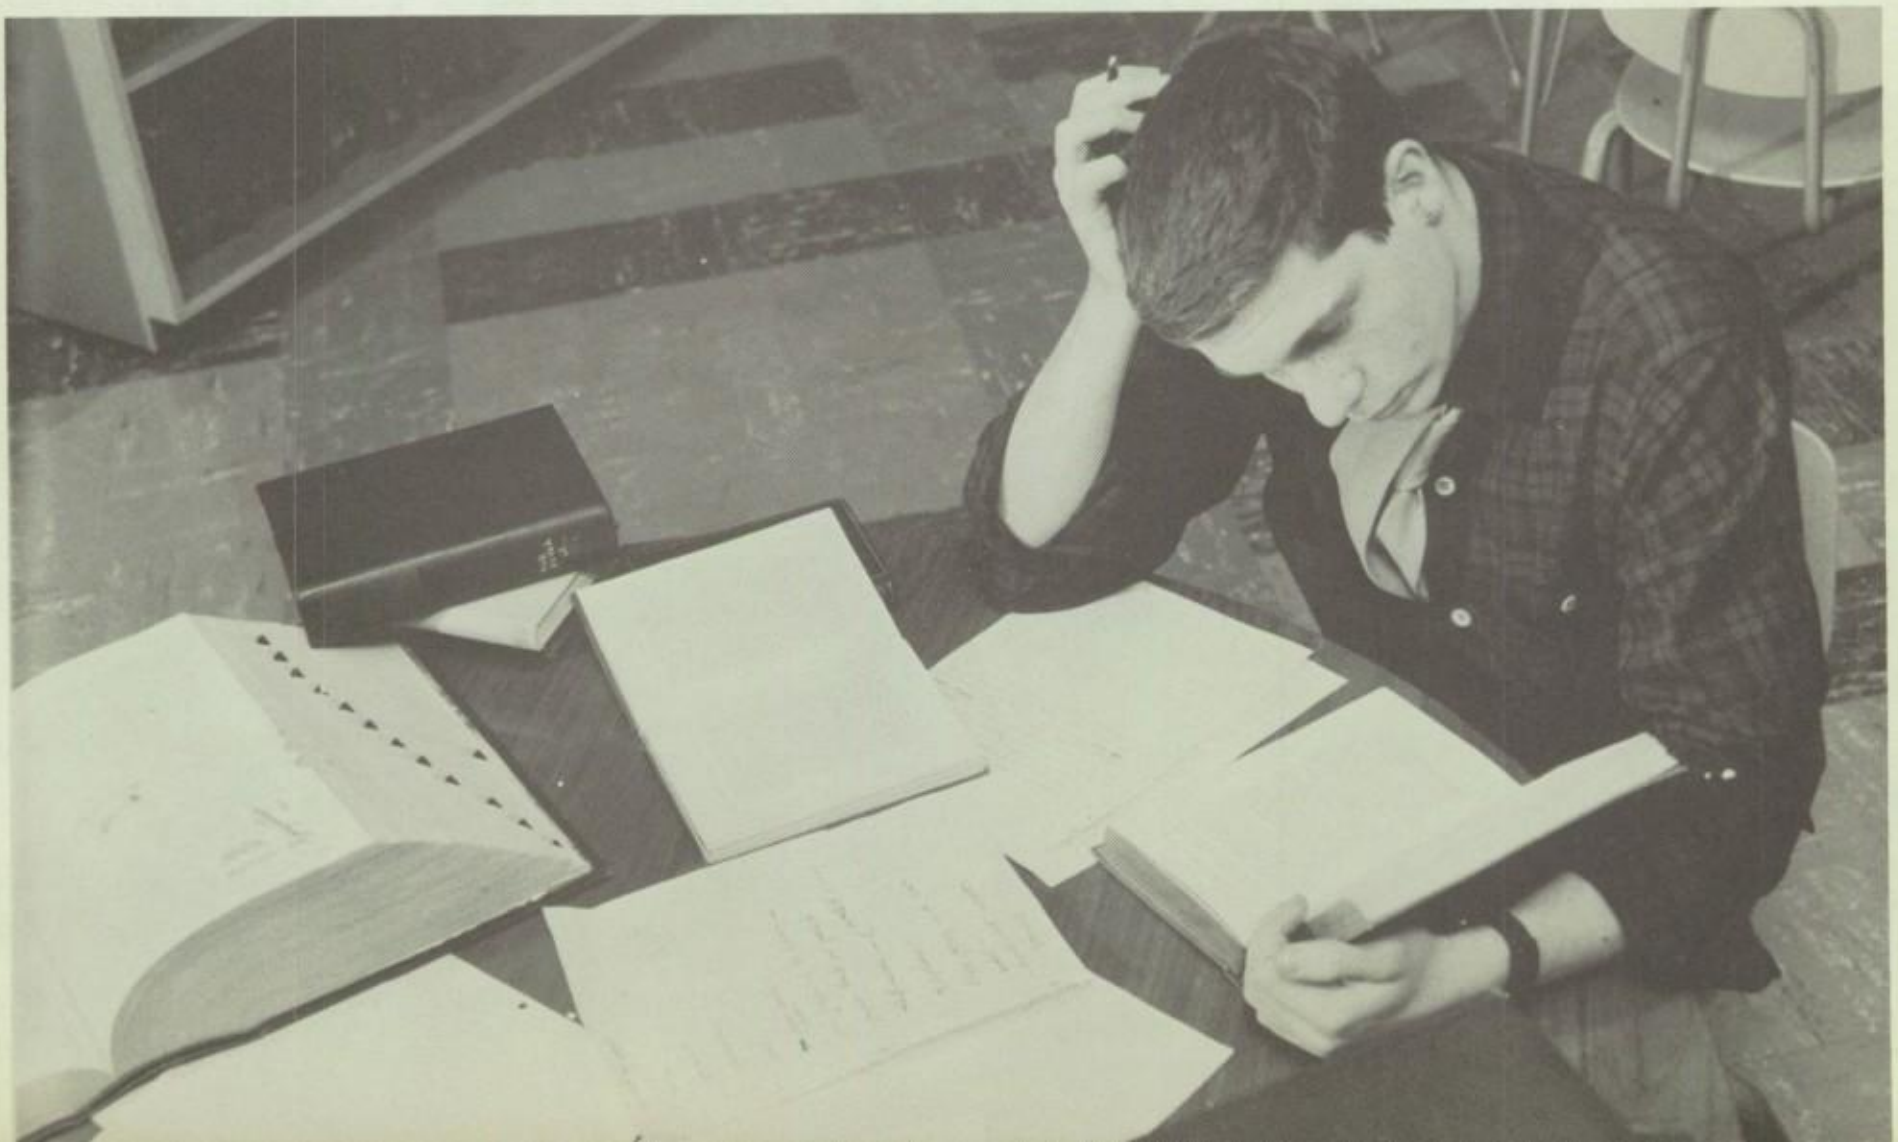
STUDENT LIFE AND EMPLOYMENT

An entire new field has been opened to today's student population — labor. There are more job openings and more employed students each year. It is hard to realize that since the first graduation student employment has undergone a complete revolution. Now 40% of all high school seniors are employed. Not only does the student earn wages but he spends it. Over ½ billion dollars is spent by high school students each year. The student is definitely a part of American business.

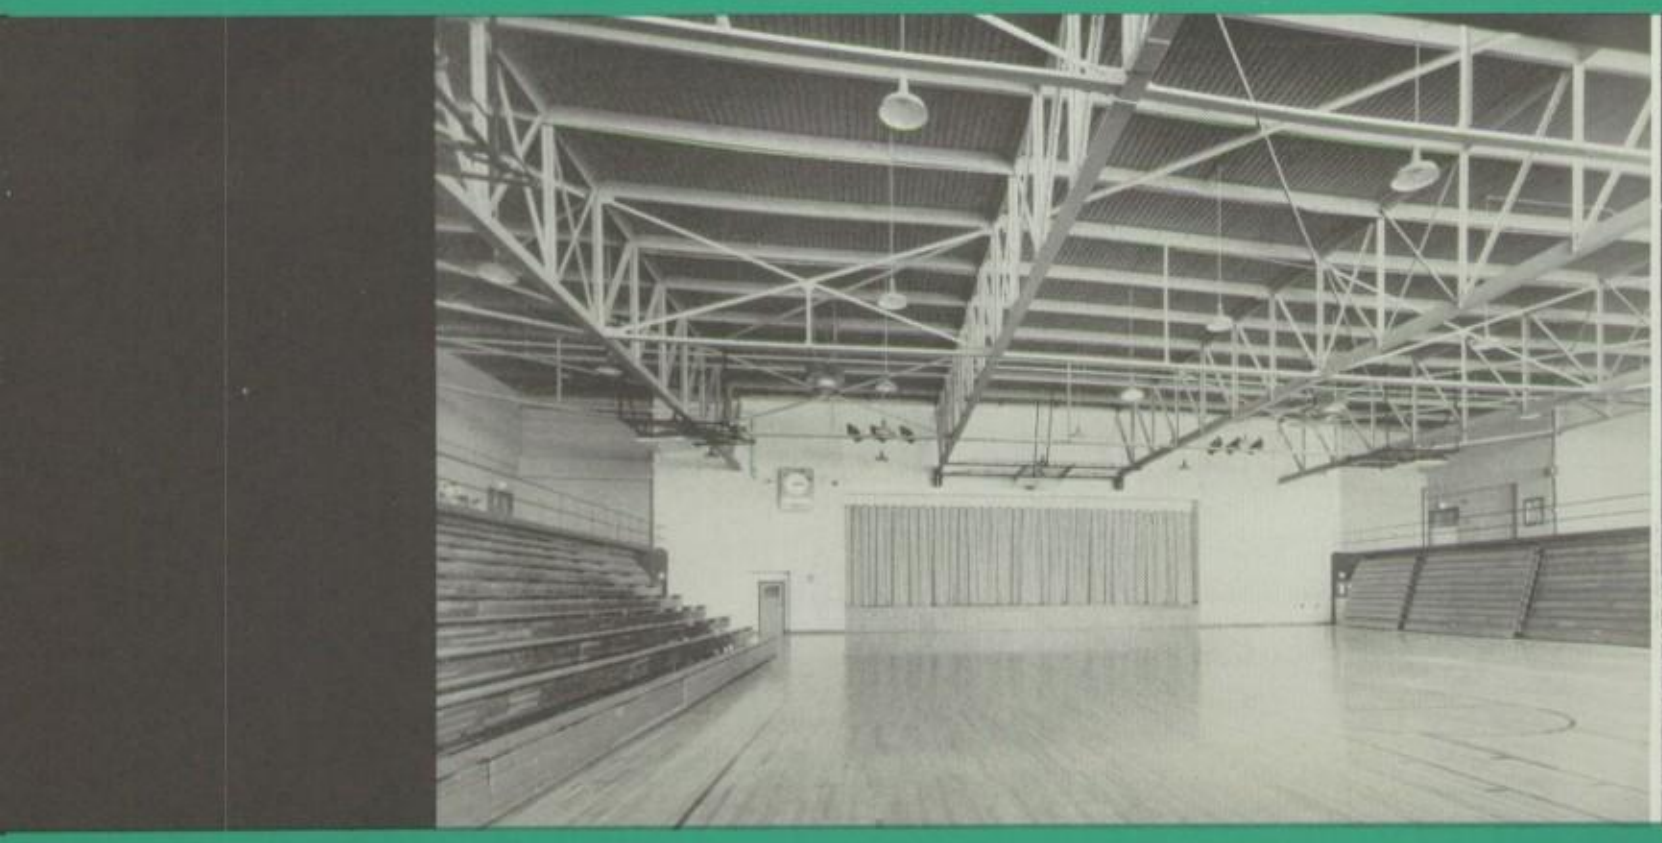
AN OLD TRADITION — After fifty years the old Jesuit tradition is still with us — semester exams and last minute study. These are the hardest weeks of the entire school term; just ask 4D senior Barry Byrne.



THEN AS NOW A New Building The Same Ideal

Madonna della Strada — the chapel on the lake

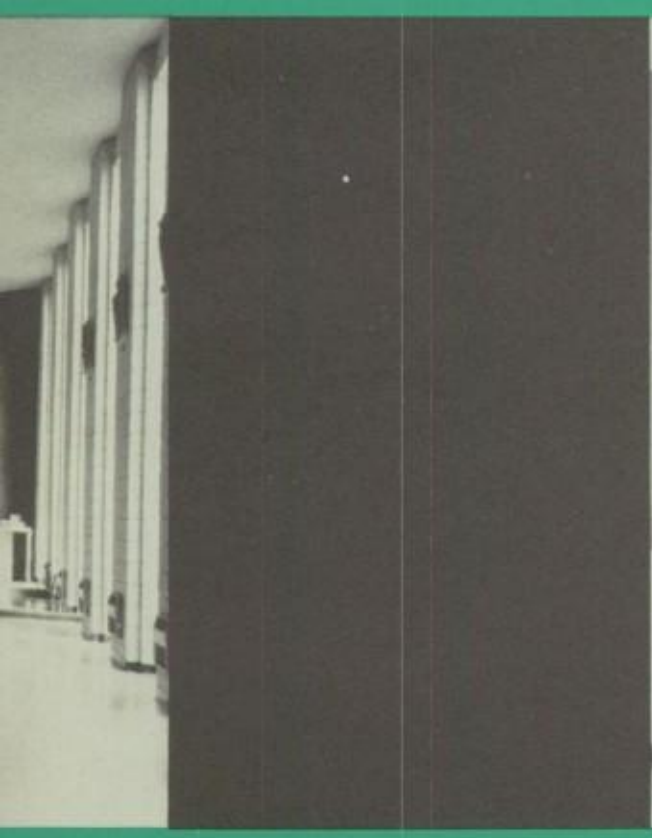
The new chapel — the heart of the school



The new gym — a scene for basketball, pep rallies, dances, and honors convocations

I. A. O. Shaughnessy Pool — the center of water polo, swimming meets, and after-school fun

The physics lab — worship for future scientists



The new library — dedicated to student service

Dumbach Hall — a citadel of learning for 47 years

Cafeteria — the most enjoyable class in the day

Dedicating the Lennie Sachs Memorial Stadium.

DEDICATION:

Father English – Priest, General, Professor, President

Four hundred and twenty-five years ago, a group of seven dedicated men founded a religious society in Paris, the Society of Jesus. The leader of this congregation was a man of tremendous talents, an orator who had the power to draw many to him, an educator who turned out many of the greatest minds of the Catholic Church, a soldier who possessed great abilities to organize and overcome obstacles. This man was St. Ignatius Loyola, the founder of the Jesuits.

With the tremendous growth of the Society of Jesus, there have been other great men to follow in the path of Ignatius. It is to one of these men that this book is dedicated. The man — Rev. Michael I. English, S.J., President of Loyola Academy. As a soldier, speaker, teacher and executive, Fr. English resembles St. Ignatius.

As a soldier Fr. English saw the North African and Italian campaigns during the Second World War. He preached retreats in Germany for fellow chaplains and taught in a school for chaplains.

As a speaker Fr. English has established himself among the very best. We, the students of Loyola Academy, know well the warm direct approach of his sermons, that personal touch which seems to make each sentence have a single, personal meaning which can be applied only to oneself.

As a teacher, Fr. English has held the positions of Professor of philosophy and theology at Loyola University and was appointed Regent of the Loyola University Medical School.

As an executive, Fr. English faces the enormous task of placing Loyola Academy on a firm financial basis.

With this man guiding each undertaking, there is an air of optimism about the new campus. This book is respectfully dedicated to the man who has come to lead Loyola in the 1960's.

FACULTY

In every phase of the student's life, whether in the class of '11 or '60, the Loyola faculty plays the most important part. In studies, in sports, and in religious guidance, the faculty is the moving factor. At times their work is not fully appreciated, yet no one denies their influence. Their teaching ability is backed up by years of study and work to help the student and form him into a well-balanced individual. It was Henry Brooks Adams who best summed up a teacher when he wrote, "A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops."

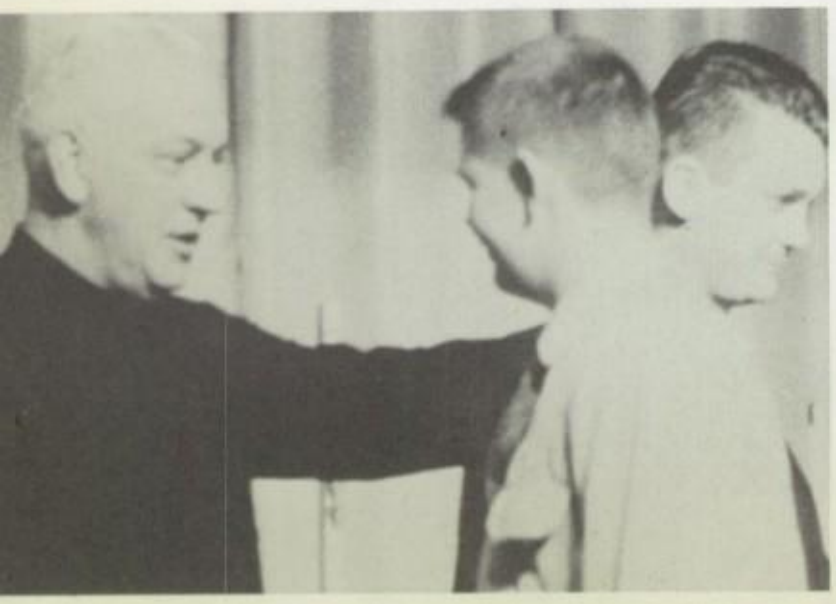
THREE SCIENTISTS. Seniors CARL MOORE and BOB WADE, Loyola's two National Merit Finalists, probe into the inclined plane theory under the watchful eye of FR. STEJSKAL.



Loyola's curriculum prepares seniors for the surging sixties.

CONGRATULATIONS. FR. ENGLISH commends sophomore, PAT KELLY, upon receiving second honors.

The two graduating classes commemorated in this yearbook are fifty years apart. The changes in these fifty years put the graduates "worlds" apart. Nineteen-ten was a time of rugged individualism devoid of the thought of world war. Nineteen-sixty belongs to the Organization Man — men used to the rules of cold war waged with propaganda.

Yet there is a common heritage binding these two classes together. It is an academic heritage. It is St. Ignatius Loyola's theory of education. Facing different worlds, these two classes meet on basic principles applicable to nineteen-ten and nineteen-sixty. These few pages of pictures present some of the old and some of the new from that educational theory.

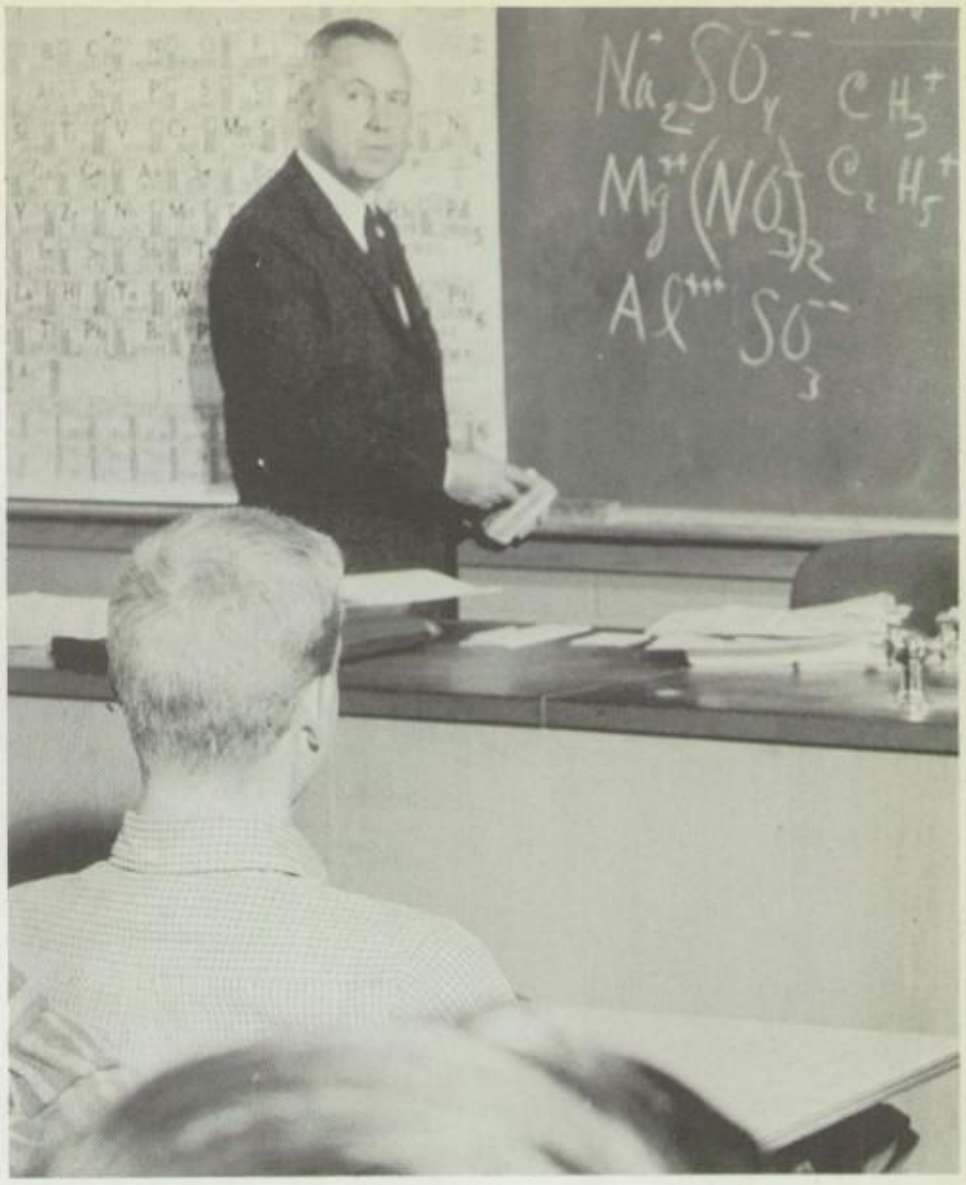
Science curriculum increases facilities

The theme of this book is the seniors of the class of 1960 as opposed to the seniors of 1911. During these past fifty years, great advances have been made in many fields, especially science — atom and hydrogen bombs, atomic submarines, rocketships, and nuclear power plants. What will happen in the next fifty years will be up to the scientific majors of today. Perhaps the next turn of the key of knowledge or another tedious experiment will unlock for these young men still greater secrets of our vast universe. As these men advance, so will science, and so will the honor and glory of the Almighty Creator of our universe.



MR. ROACH is momentarily interrupted while explaining problems encountered in formulae writing.

JUST FORGET THE MOVIE, READ THE BOOK. MR. BOWMAN promotes the "paper-back program" as he pushes another novel into the hands of an eager student.

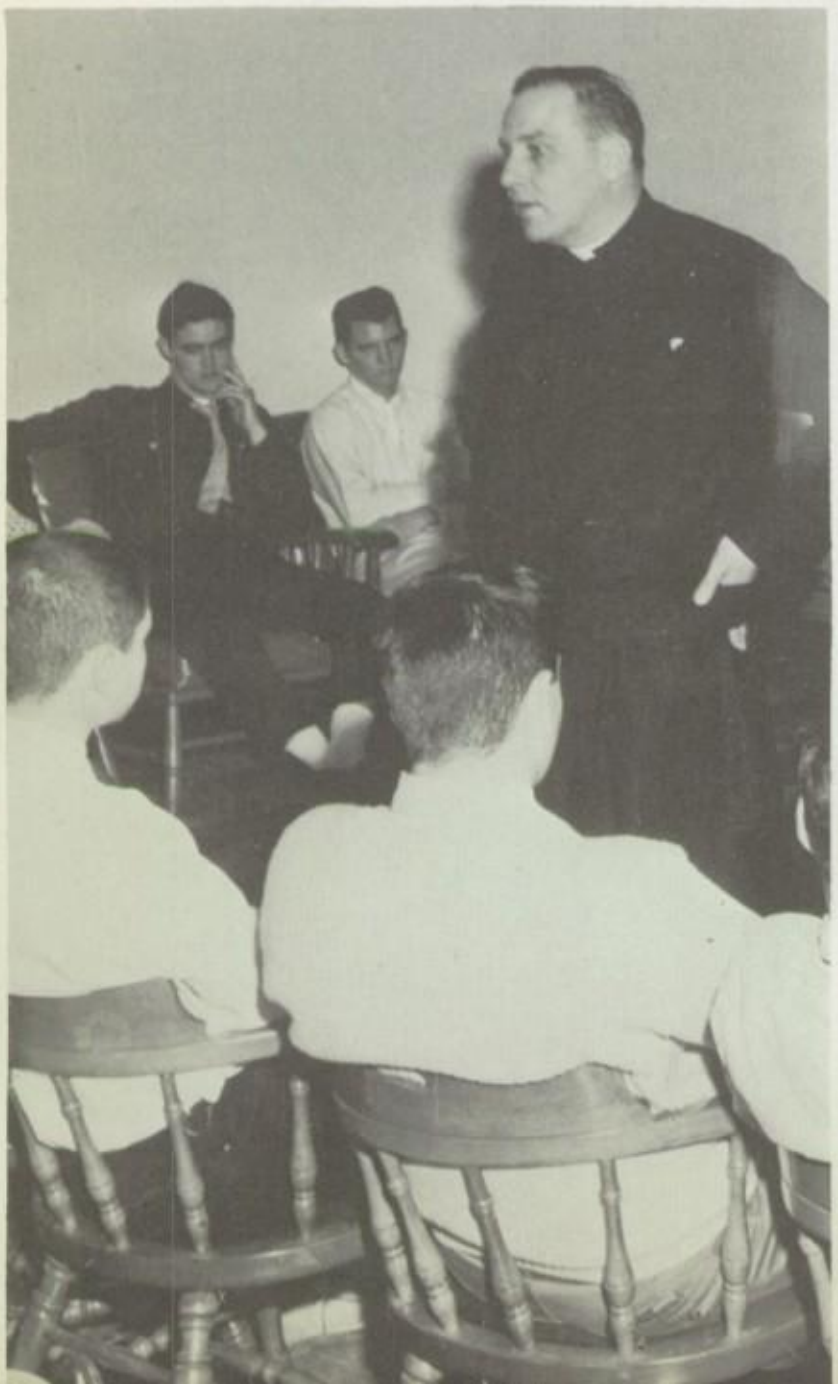
IF ANGLE A EQUALS . . . The logical conclusions of this statement are shown by FR. RYAN to ROBERT BESSE, JOHN BLAIS, GEORGE SCHAEFER, and ERNEST BUCKLEY.

Classic subjects still hold attention of students

While science has been progressing with leaps and bounds, the CLASSICS have shown little visible advance. They have, however, crept ahead in two distinct ways — the first being the advance from age to age with each period adding a new writer, poet, or philosopher; the second is in the student's own mind. Each pupil must discover for himself the delightfulness of Homer, the subtleties of Chaucer, the richness of Shakespeare. For fifty years the ultimate of Jesuit education has been embodied in the Honors Course, which strives for the cultured, intellectual man.

KNUCKLEHEADS!! Latin comes tough, but so does MR. BOYLE, seen here drilling DARYL ANDERSTROM.

IF HOMER DID IT, SO CAN I! This is the motto of all determined Greek students, and Loyola's JOHN GERDING is no exception.



Visitors to Loyola find many changes.

What strikes the graduate of 1911 as he revisits a new edition of an old idea? He finds a view that fills his entire field of vision — forty-four acres which provide a better educational institution for the class of 1960, expansion in size from 160 students to almost ten times that number, a teaching faculty of varied skills, techniques, and views, history books twice the size because of two world wars, new courses to study the newly developed fields in science, mathematics, and languages, classrooms filled with new scientific equipment; all this and more strikes the graduate of 1911 as he views the new Loyola Academy from which the class of 1960 is graduating.

One of the most recent additions to Loyola's lay staff is a red-headed, sharp-witted young man, Mr. Donald Rogan. He teaches underclassmen history and is himself a student of this subject. Right now, Mr. Rogan is working toward his Master's Degree at Loyola University. Recently he gave a seminar at L.U. which is pictured on this page.

SENIORS

When a large manufacturing company takes its product off the assembly line and puts on that product a mark of approval, they are certain that they have attained a set standard of quality, conforming to the demands of the consumer. When Loyola Academy sends forth its graduating class, they are certain that each and every senior is the finished product of four years of Jesuit education. They have come through the years of formation, the years of decision, the years of work, the years of fun. The consumers in this case are the colleges and universities to which the graduates of this fiftieth anniversary class will go. In each member is brought together every goal of education and formation composing the class of 1960.

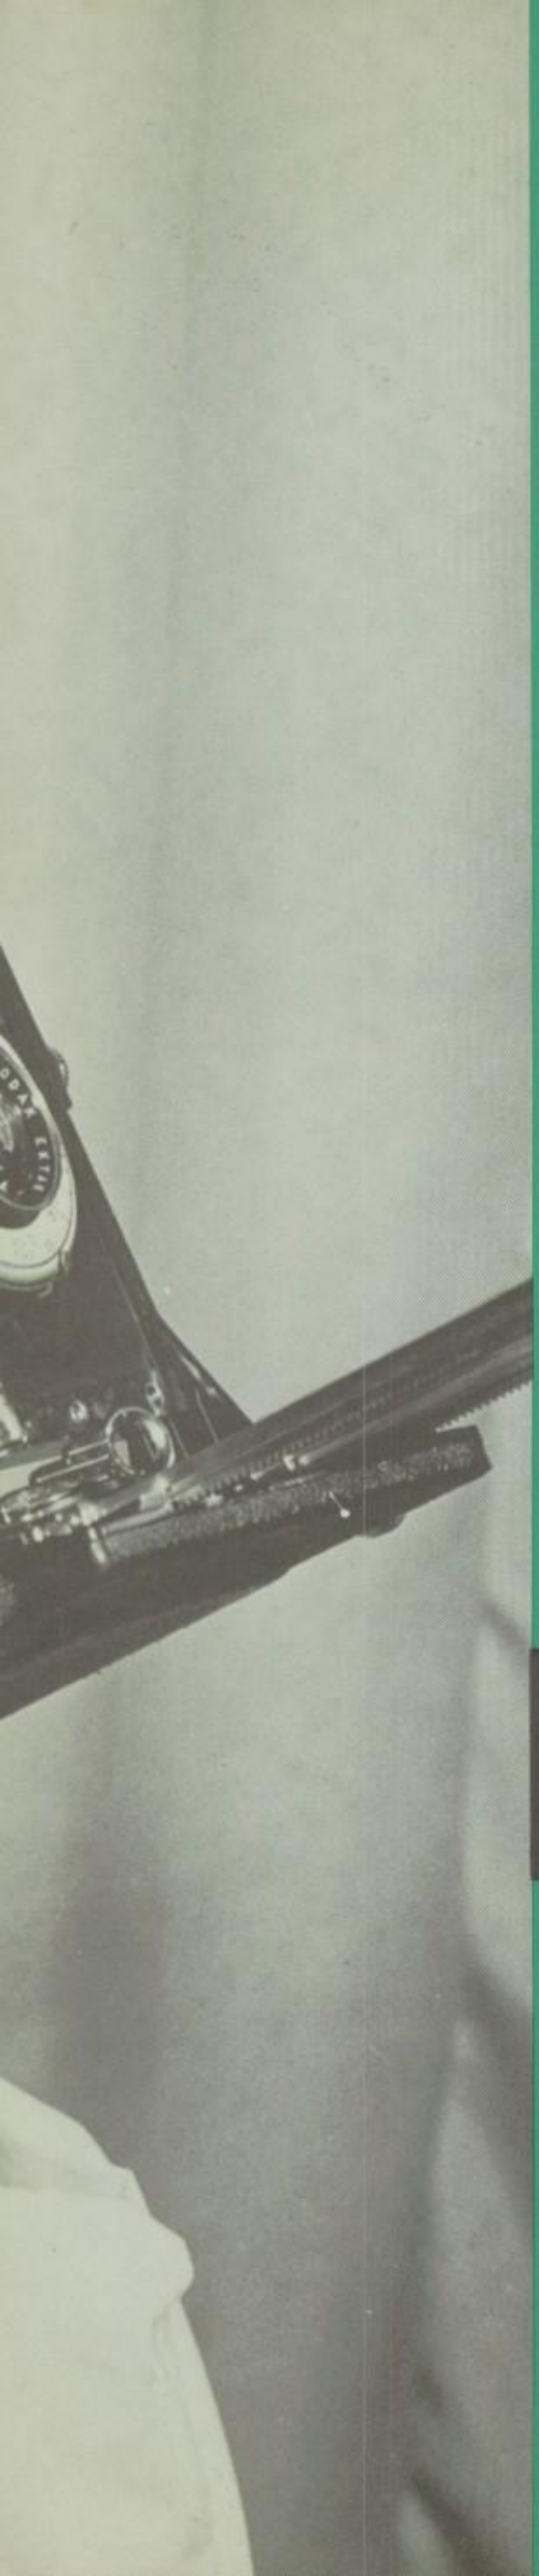
SPEED GRAPHIC



ACTIVITIES

While in the classroom the student fulfills his primary purpose—education, Loyola also offers a wide variety of extra-curricular activities which can develop the student both spiritually and mentally and give him valuable training for his later life. It is one thing for a student to graduate with a tremendously high average but not to contribute anything to his school. It is the student with the good grades and who shows qualities of leadership that are especially respected on campus. All the various activities further the education of the student in whatever field he chooses and allows him a chance to bring out and develop all of his talents.

Discussing the plans and progress of the Catholic Inter-Racial Council at Loyola are sodalists Carl Miklitsch, George Seidenbecker, Joe Bolsinger, Bill Sullivan, Marty Lane, and Mr. James Bowman, S.J.

Sodality

To classify the Sodality as an extra-curricular, as just another organization is to miss its entire meaning. The Sodality is a way of Christ's life; not a club to be joined in high school and to be forgotten in college. The Sodality is a way of life for life. Its aims are twofold: first, the Communion, the rosary, and mental prayer; and secondly the sanctification of others. Apostolates such as collecting Christmas baskets for the poor, staging the Bal Masque, running the Sodality Days, and conducting canned food drives all help the Sodalists to draw themselves and others a little closer to Christ.

The final blessing is given to new Sodalists by Rev. Michael I. English, S.J., after the sodalists made or renewed their act of consecration.

Helping the less fortunate — a typical activity of the Sodality is carried on by Sodalists Ed. Meintzer, Charles Harrity, and Bert Buss. Mr. James Bowman, moderator of the junior sodality, looks on.

Goodbye Bal Masque: 1960. John Toohey drapes decorations over his date. Dance chairman Jim Woodward watches cheerfully as the destruction goes forward.

Loyola's Sodalities engage in varied apostolates.

During the sodality retreat at Villa Redeemer a group of junior sodalists pauses while making the Stations.

The probation Sodality is looking forward to a bright future with such officers as Paul Savard, Bob Fletcher, and Phil Sunderland. Already they begin to plan for next year, guided by genial Mr. Kotowski, S.J., their moderator.

Underclass Sodalities prepare for the responsibility of leadership.

Men of the Sacred Heart

A group of Loyolans dedicated to a generous following of Christ our Lord —this is the Men of the Sacred Heart. Aimed at a greater knowledge and love of Christ, these men center their activities around the Morning Offering and the program of the Apostleship of Prayer.

Beyond knowledge and love lies activity for Christ and His cause. The Men of the Sacred Heart, primarily through their example and the daily living of their lives in a spirit of reparation, try to carry on Christ's life mission and spread His influence to other men.

Through these personal activities, these men come to see Christ more clearly and follow Him more closely and, in turn, win for others the grace and strength to "go and do likewise."

The values and benefits of reparation and consecration to the Sacred Heart are discussed by the moderators and officers of the Men of the Sacred Heart.

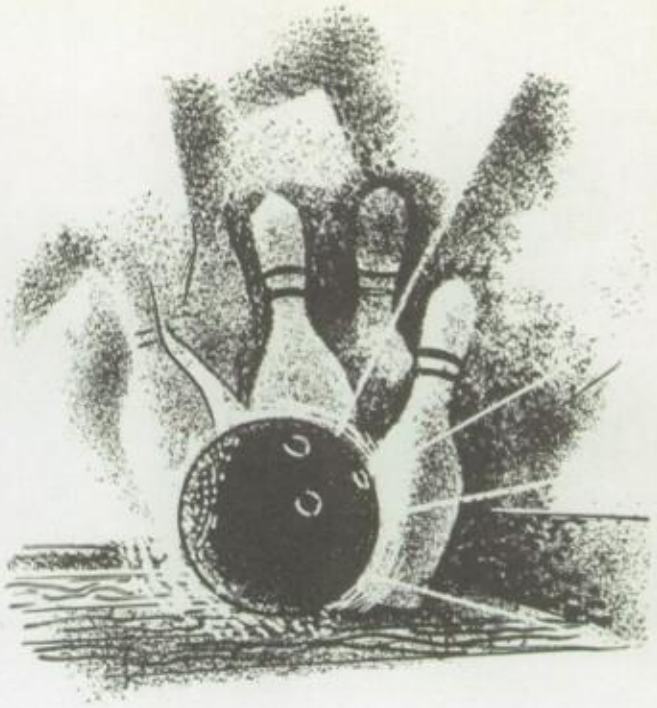
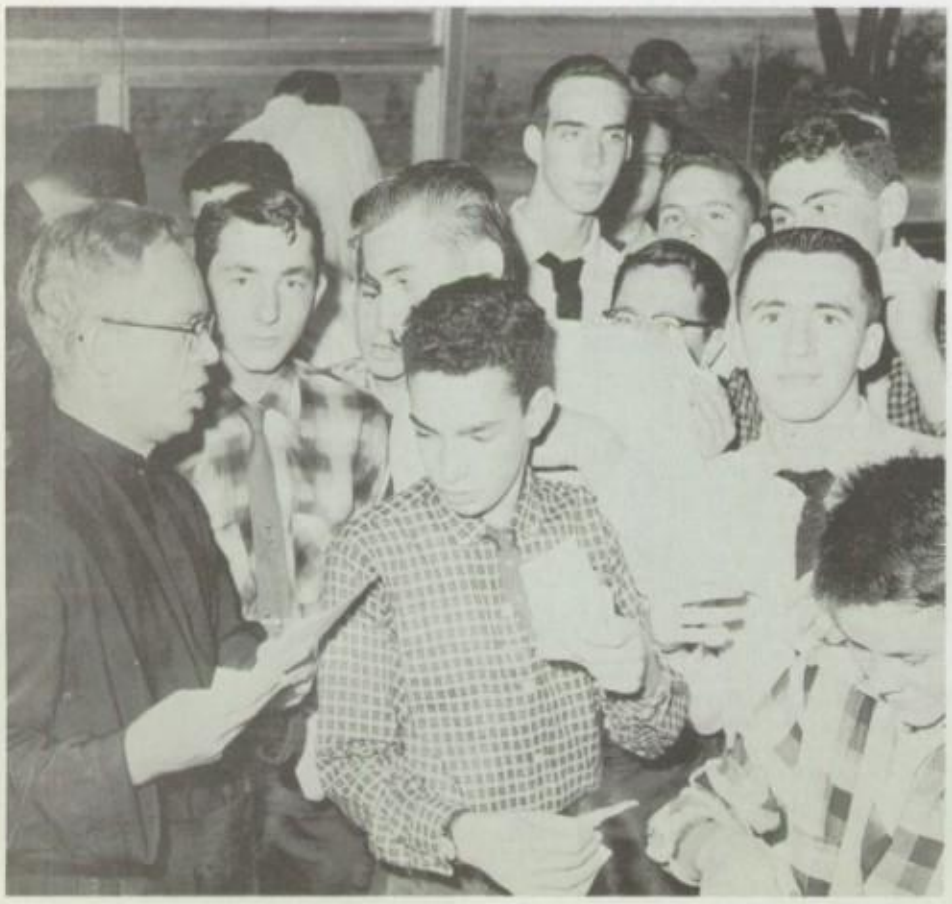
Loyola bowlers join recently organized Catholic league –



Intramurals organized

for school competition

In comparing today's student to the scholar of fifty years ago, one of the most striking distinctions is the vast difference in extra-curricular activities. As the school has expanded and grown, its need for extra-curriculars has increased. Each year new activities have been added to an already impressive list, the newest being the bowlers. Organized at the start of the school year by Fr. Robert Pollauf, S.J., the varsity and intramural bowling teams have become exceedingly popular. And with the newly opened Orchard Bowl as home base, the LA keglers have rolled up an impressive record for their first year in league competition.



Fr. Pollauf, S.J. enlists enthusiastic Loyolans in the intra-mural bowling league.

THE POWERFUL RIGHT ARM of Tom Head starts the ball down the lane.

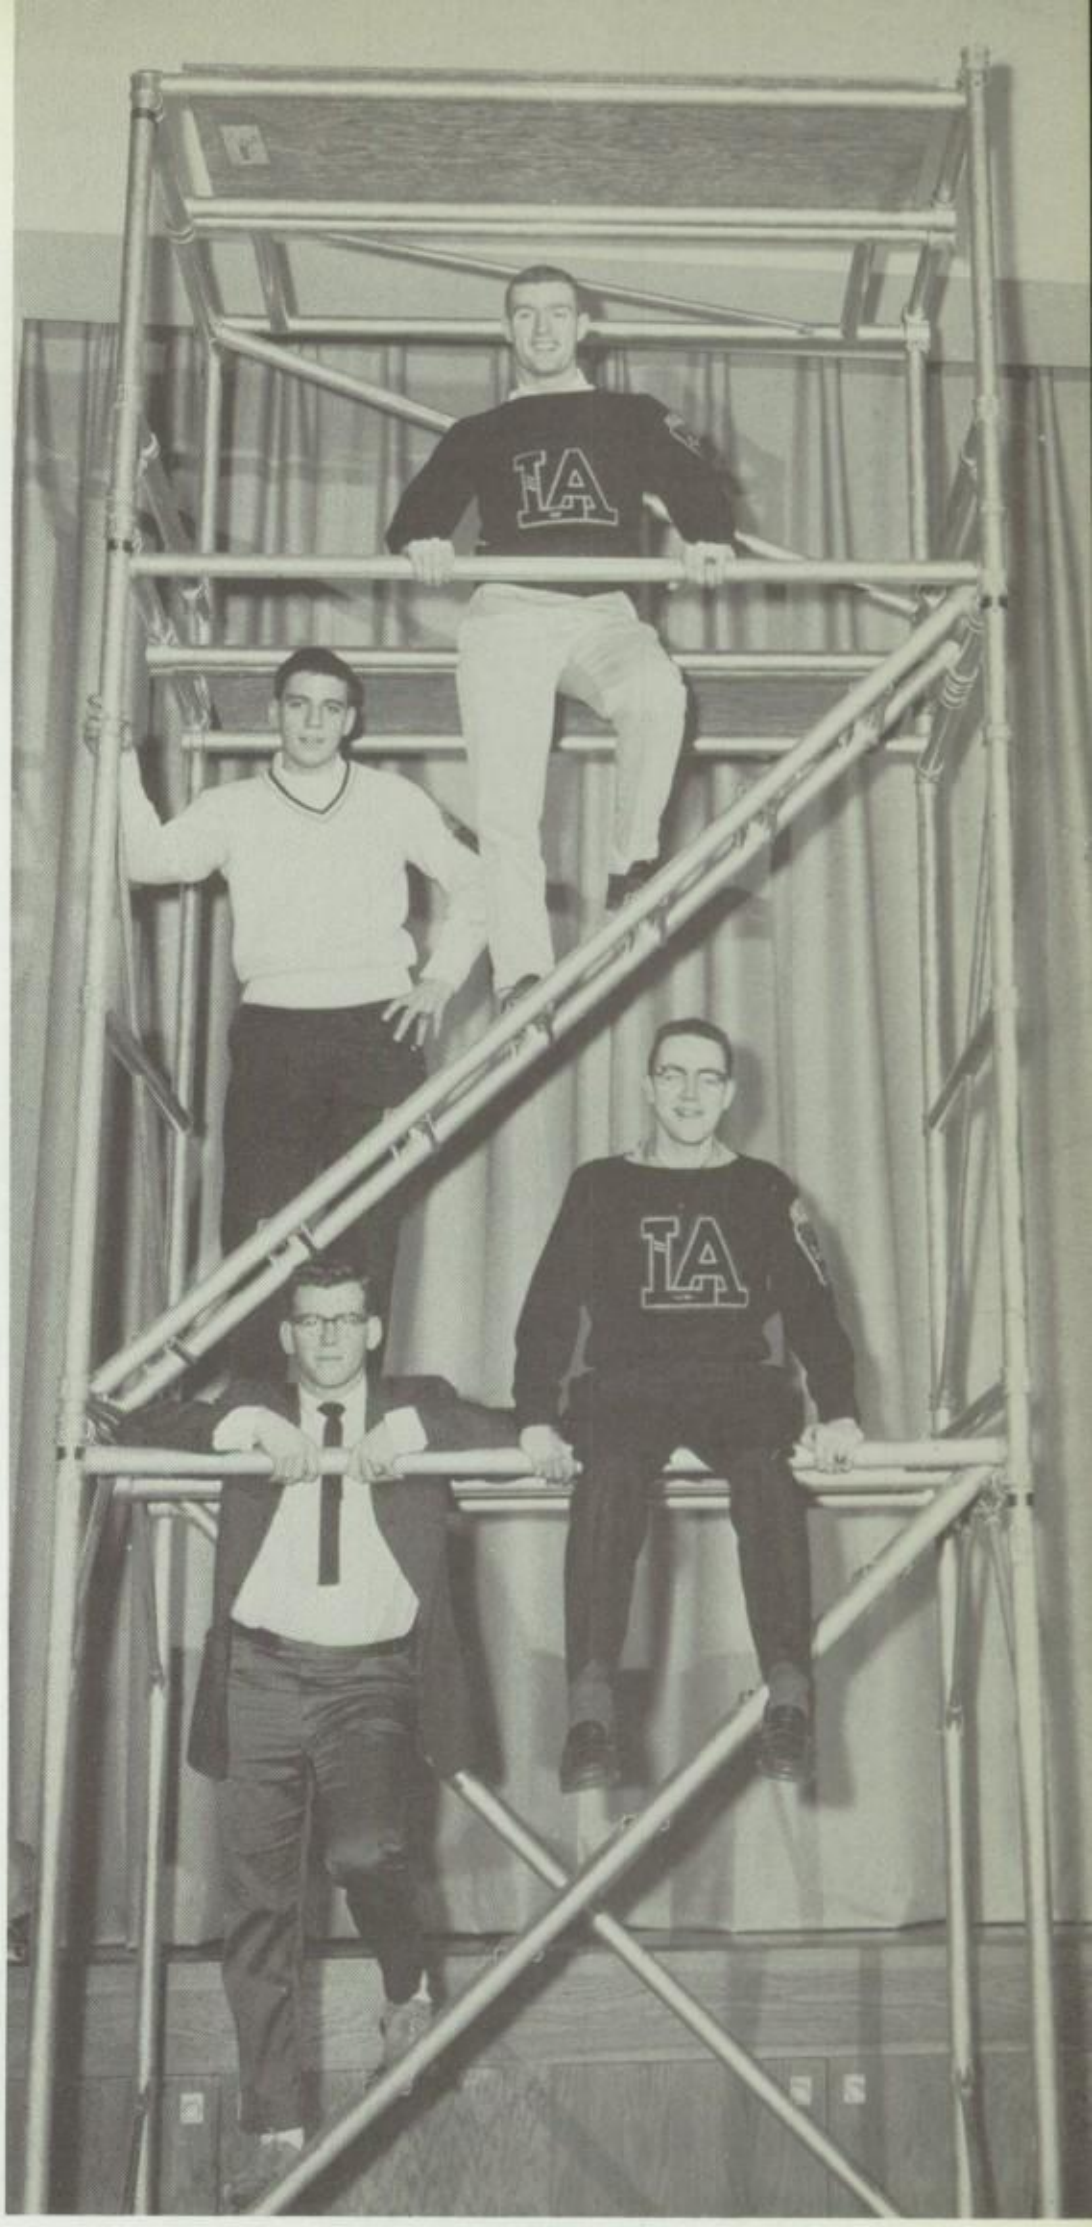
Imaginative leadership increases scope of Torch Club activity

Leadership, this is the keynote of the Loyola Academy Torch Club. The Torch Club is a unique organization composed of members elected by the students themselves. It is a honorary society for those students who have proved themselves outstanding in the classroom or in athletics. The club's importance in student life is easily seen by its many and varied activities. Refereeing intramural games and grade school tournies, holding pep rallies and sock-hops, and sponsoring LA's most extravagant dance, the Tulip Trot, all this and much more is done by the Torch Club each year. Truly, the Torch Club is the student activity for the benefit of the whole Academy.

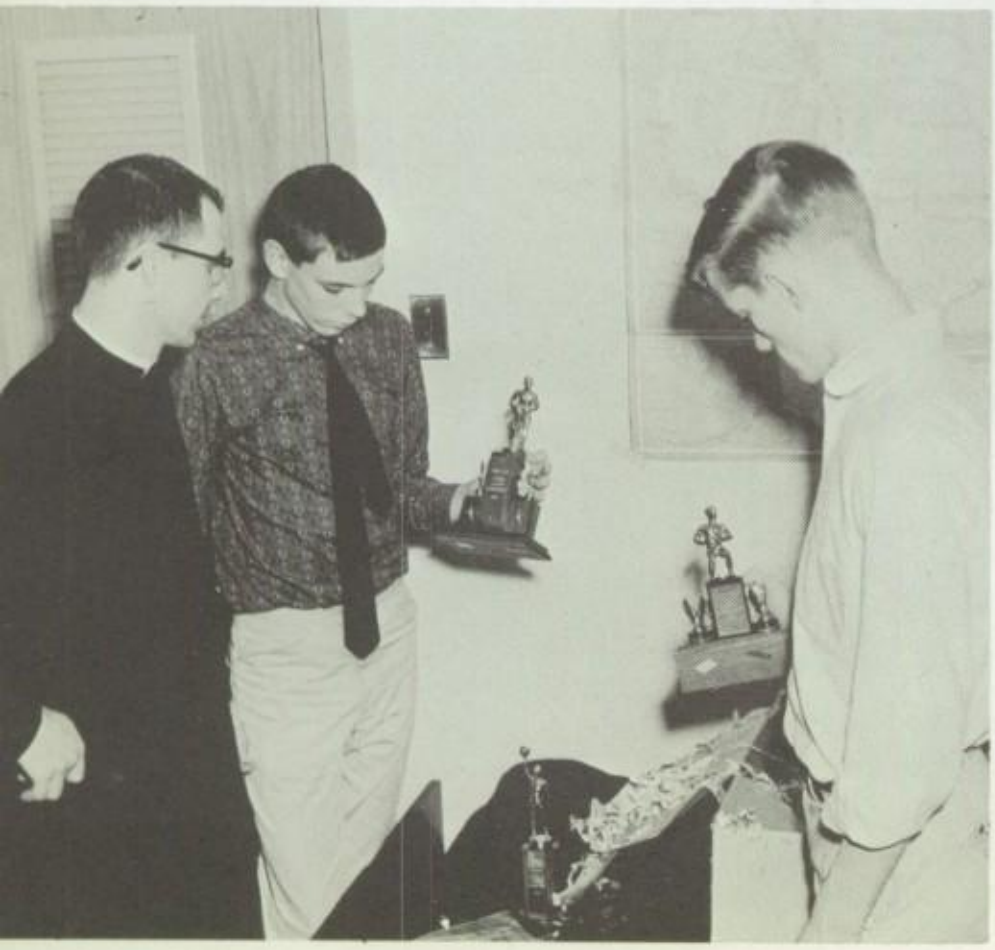
TULIP TROT committee heads, Tim Leahy, Art Collins, and John Maloney, plan spring dance.

TORCH CLUB

"The object of the club shall be to promote school spirit among the student body by lending cooperation in all school activities . . . officers of the Torch Club shall be elected for a term of one year . . . failure to participate in at least one extra-curricular activity shall constitute suspension . . . pledges may not vote but may suggest action to be taken . . . membership shall be equally divided between athletes and non-athletes . . . dues shall be five cents per week payable in advance . . . the President shall preside over all meetings of the Torch Club and the Board of Action . . . rules may be suspended only by a three-fourths vote of members present at any meeting . . ."



THE MAIN BRACES of the LA Torch Club are officers (top to bottom): Bill Smith, Vice-president; Don Romano, Treasurer; Joe Lane, Secretary; and John Breen, President.



ADMIRING TROPHIES to be presented to the winners of the Torch Club-sponsored grade school tournament are moderator, Mr. John Crowley, S.J. and Sophomores Denny Boland and Terry Doyle.

ROSTRUM: ROW 1: Fr. Robert Pollauf, S.J., Paul Boltz, Jim Haddad, Dan Foley.
ROW 2: Dave James, Eugene Ostrum, Charles Harrity.

IN A VERBAL DUEL at St. Philip's High School, Sophomore debater Jay Conner bests an opposing debater.

Rostrum and gavel top Loyola speech activities

OFFICERS OF THE ROSTRUM AND MODERATOR Shannon Tighe, Dick Lee, Henry Sullivan, Jim Haddad, and Father Robert Pollauf, S.J. plan strategy for upcoming debate tournameents.

DEBATING:

The theme of this book — Fifty Years Of Seniors — has already been stated in the introduction. By now it is quite obvious that there is a great difference in the world as we know it today and the world as the class of 1910 saw it. Now more than ever before, the Catholic student must be able to defend his faith and to express himself clearly and accurately on the problems and current affairs facing our troubled world. With this in mind, what better training is there than debating. It gives the student the opportunity to develop his mind to think soundly and rapidly. In the past, many of the finest speakers in the mid-west have been turned out by Loyola's Rostrum and Gavel. And this number shall increase still more, as more and more students begin to realize the importance of such training.

FORCEFULNESS AND EXPRESSION are the trademarks of good debating — as is ably demonstrated by Senior debater Bill Sparks.

THE SEEKERS END THEIR SEARCH. Frank Phelan, Neil O'Brien, and Jim Davitt find the ill-fated treasure.

Five plays were produced by the Loyola Academy Drama Club this year. Everything was done by the students themselves. They made all the props; they designed and controlled all lighting and sound effects; and, of course, they acted in the plays. This type of work and training creates a versatile character who is more understanding of the actions and thoughts of others. It's a training invaluable in later life. But the ability to adopt oneself to the life of another comes only with hours of practice. Yet a play is not made of actors alone. But rather it is a mutual effort on the part of moderator, actors, and stagehands, who for weeks have been working behind the scenes, organizing and directing; that makes these performances so enjoyable for all.

DUKE IN DARKNESS

PRESENTED MAY 5 AND MAY 6 AT LOYOLA COMMUNITY THEATER

The Duke in Darkness is a play of intrigue. It is set during the War of the Three Henrys in 16th century France. The Duke of Laterraine (Shannon Tighe) has been a prisoner for fifteen years. In these long, dreary years he has been aided by a faithful, but now mad, servant (Bob Dole). The play is the story of the Duke's escape engineered by a talented young knight (Frank Phelan).

The evil Count D'Aublaye (Jim Simon) gloats over the misfortunes of the Duke (Shannon Tighe) and his insane servant Gribaud (Bob Dole).

Bob Dole is checkmated by Shannon Tighe in a tense scene from the DUKE IN DARKNESS.

Final stage directions for Act II are given to James Simon, Shannon Tighe, Bob Dole, Henry Sullivan, Frank Phelan and Dick Larkin by Mr. Bamberger and his assistant Michael Fogarty.

The Duke (Shannon Tighe) and his enemy Count D'Aublaye (Jim Simon) gaze wonderingly at Gribaud (Bob Dole) who has gone insane after fifteen years imprisonment.

"All the news that's fit to print."

"All-Catholic" — that was the verdict of the National Catholic Press Association about the PREP. How did the PREP merit this high praise? The reason is simple — by the generous, cheerful, hard work of the entire PREP staff, by everyone from the editors, photographers, and reporters down to the typists, copy-readers and proof-readers. Editor Mike Dillon set a standard of excellence for his entire staff, and this same standard is already showing and will continue to show in the work of the new editor, Bill Sullivan.

Loyola Photo-Journalists increase coverage of school events

Out of the storeroom adjacent Mr. Kotowski's bookstore emerge each afternoon a breed of men unused to the light. Members of the camera club make daily forays from their storeroom laboratory to every activity on the campus. Bill Klinge introduced color photography at the Bal Masque. The football team found itself featured at the Homecoming Dance. Dennis Donovan, Dick Ostry, Dennis Mitchell, all proved that one picture is worth a thousand words. Donovan appeared in the Wilmette Life more than once. Mitchell's telephoto technique caught teachers and students unaware. Ostry and the bulky press camera were inseparable companions during the noon periods.

The Loyola YEAR —

Bigger and better than ever:

When asked what activity he belonged to and what sport he played, a yearbook editor of a few years back responded, "I belong to every activity, I have played on all the teams." True enough. Yearbook editors past and present follow each game, each meet, each meeting mentally taking pictures and jotting notes. They appear at play rehearsals though not in the cast. They end up at debates without speaking a word. This year's co-editors, Dave Scholl and Jim Ryan were no exceptions to the picture presented above. By unnumbered hours of work each month they brought section after section to life. They did this with important help from the other editors: Mike Dillon, Dick Ostry, and Jim Keller. New improvements brought the Year in line with modern printing standards. Offset was introduced. The page size was increased. Available light photography was used wherever possible.

FATHERS' CLUB

Mothers' and Fathers' Clubs aid school with various activities

Working throughout the year for the good of the school and to promote better student-parent-faculty relations are the Loyola Academy Mothers' and Fathers' Clubs. Under the competent direction of Mrs. John Breen and Mr. Sam Marotta, these two parent organizations are continually sponsoring and financing school activities, such as spring and fall card parties, father and son communion breakfasts, gym nights, and benefits. All these help to promote the parent-teacher unity so necessary for a good high school.

POLICY AND PLANS OF THE FATHERS' CLUB are formulated by Fr. G. M. Legris, moderator, Mr. Samuel Marotta, president, Mr. John O'Keefe, Mr. Arthur Collins, and Mr. Patrick Driscoll.

Members of the Mothers' Club relax after a very successful Fall card-party: Mrs. John A. Breen, president; Mrs. Edward J. Healy, Mrs. Orlando G. Castro, Mrs. Louis D. Moorhead, Mrs. Louis E. ATHLETICS

At the Academy today, football, baseball, tennis, swimming, basketball, track, bowling, golf, and cross counrty are all included in an extensive sports program which began fifty years ago in a school of only 100 students and an athletic program consisting of only football and basketball. But since its meager beginning in 1910, the Academy has expanded by leaps and bounds. And as the Academy grew, so did the athletic department until today each student has a chance to participate in the sport of his choice. This is in keeping with Loyola tradition of the development of the whole student.

Injuries, opponents slow Ramblers

Loyola's 1959 Ramblers posted a one-win, seven-loss record for the season, though struggling under the burden of an out-manned and under-sized squad. An early season loss of two-letter men, Bob Ruppe and John Breen, seriously hampered and crippled both offensive and defensive units. Other minor injuries continually plagued the team. However, much praise is due to Ray Larson, the spear-head of the defensive unit, and to Carl Buss and John Breen, on their offensive plunges, and to all the others who carried the name of Loyola Academy onto the gridiron each Sunday.

Loyola's Heavyweights — A small but a spirited Team!!

The 1960 Heavyweights had a lot of talent built around very little height. This combination should have been enough to earn them a play-off berth; but, early in league competition, the play-off minded team was dealt a critical blow when their one big man, Jim McIntosh, was lost for the balance of the season because of a knee injury.

The club started off on the right foot by knocking off arch-rival St. George in a down to the wire contest. Optimism ran high. Then, after a brutal beating by Weber, came the Gordon Tech. game which derailed both McIntosh and the Rambler Quintet. From then on it was an uphill struggle; but, with Mike Lyons, second leading scorer in the Catholic League, leading the way, the Heavies managed to salvage a respectable 5 and 5 record.

Two great wins over St. George, a second round triumph over Gordon Tech., and Mike Lyons bid for league scoring honors were just a few of the highlights of an otherwise disappointing season.

Teamwork leads lights to city finals.

A last second desperation shot that rimmed the net and fell out clamped a sad ending on the 1960 Loyola Rambler Lightweight season. The "Cinderella" team of the Catholic League had finally lost. The scoreboard simply said Loyola 51-De Paul 52. But no number of words could convey the excitement of that championship game. The Ramblers, led by captain Tom Cleland and juniors Dick Devine, Paul Stepan, Earl Juilus, and Con Sullivan, had won eight games in succession, two in playoff competition, before taking on the DePaul Demons for the city crown. The game was close all the way, but two freethrows by DePaul's Mike Corrado in the last ten seconds of play were the deciding margin. Thus ended LA's best lightweight season since 1935.

BANTAM AND FLYWEIGHT BASKETBALL

Loyola's Bantam and Flyweight basketball teams are in reality proving grounds where future Rambler greats are born. It is from these ranks that next year's varsity teams will come; and it is here, under the watchful eyes of Coaches Gene Sullivan and James Pozza, that the poise, skill, and determination so necessary for a good team is developed.

.....Always second-best is the jinx which plagued Loyola's swimming teams since 1937. This year, after posting a season record of 9 wins and 2 losses under Coach Donald Mulligan, the Ramblers sent a senior team, lacking in depth and experience, to the Catholic League meet at Fenwick High School. The outcome was obvious from the very start, as the Friars swept all divisions in the team meet. LA's nine qualifiers finished their perennial second behind the stroking of Joe Griffin and Tim O'Shaugnessy and a strong finish in the relays.

The Junior meet held at Loyola was simply a repeat of the senior. Loyola held off all comers to take another second.

Harriers bring a championship to Loyola.

It took exactly twenty-four months for Mr. Donald Mulligan to bring a city championship to the Academy. Late last August, Coach Mulligan called out his harriers for the start of another cross country season. By the end of four weeks both Senior and Junior teams were in peak condition and ready for the first meet. Experience, manpower, and team spirit, they had them all. And soon there could be no doubt that the Junior team, after going undefeated through the pre-season, would run over all opponents and keep their team's perfect record for two years. Behind the fine running of city champion, Jim Murphy, and the runner-up, Cliff Smoluch, the Junior team won the Catholic City Cross Country Title. Don Fox, John Van Bramer, and Tom Farrell led the Senior team to win six of nine dual meets, a second place in the North Section Championship, and a good showing in the City Meet.

At the first crack of spring seventy-five hopefuls trotted onto the track, oozing with mud, to begin practicing high and low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, shot put, and relays. After weeks of hard work and practice, the team has come on fast to place right up on top in the final standings.

OPTIMISM PERVADES YOUTHFUL LOYOLA NINE AS SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE SEASON ENDS

Loyola's baseball team, although in only its third year, has finally shown signs of real promise. With improved hitting and pitching, the Loyola nine held their own in every game, and as the season progressed the fielding and defense started picking up. By press time Mr. Kotoski's followers, playing out of Wilmette's Community Playfield, had posted a season greatly improved over the previous two years.

Returning Champs try for senior city crown

With high hopes and plenty of experience, Loyola's golf team opened the season eyeing its third Catholic League title in as many years. Starting out on the wide expanses of their home course, Skokie Playfield, Loyola's golfers rolled up another successful season. Under moderator Brother Elsaesser, S.J., LA's clubbers took on all comers and still finished ahead of the field in the final standings.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Although the theme of this book is the comparison of today's seniors with the seniors of fifty years ago, we could hardly overlook those freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, known as underclassmen. For each and every senior, no matter what honors have been heaped upon him, no matter what position he holds in the senior class, no matter how popular he may be, can remember those first days at the Academy — days of shyness, of making new friends, and of adjusting to a new school. He recalls moving up in society and entering sophomore year. New problems developed — what course to enter next year, why had he asked two girls to the Homecoming. Finally junior year arrives and he enters upon a new study of the classics or the atom. It is in these formative years, these years of dreams and decisions and ideals, that a young man lays down the foundation of character that will carry him through senior year, through college, and through life.

VI

Imagine Christ our Lord present before you upon the cross, and begin to speak with Him, asking how it is that though He is the Creator, He has stooped to become man, and to pass from eternal life to death here in time, that thus He might die for our sins. I shall also reflect upon myself and ask: "What have I done for Christ? What am I doing for Christ? What ought I to do for Christ?"
